

How

Projection mapping

To get our message across we can use projection mapping, and/or guerrilla projection.

This method allows us to reach a broad audience by being situated in public places, and also purely by being physically large.

It also allows us to give a larger voice to people who are usually unable to voice their problems to the majority of society in a meaningful way.

